

Gettysburg Is Attacked For "Invasion" Of Historic Area

Historic Gettysburg was given a severe cuffing in an article by Michael Frome in Parade magazine circulated with some Sunday newspapers. With it were a number of illustrations showing the "creeping of commercialism" on and near the Battlefield.

Frome wrote that "new and unworthy memorials are sprouting at this most famous of Civil War shrines: motels on the line of Pickett's Charge, ranch houses within Confederate lines, souvenir stands, gas stations, taverns, even an auto graveyard. And worst of all are signs of more invasions to come. Two new housing developments and an industrial plant are potential threats."

Other Areas Threatened
Frome decries the acquisition of battlefield land by private interests and adds: "Nor are battlefields the only areas in danger. Of 24 million acres within the boundaries of National Park Service areas, 700,000 are privately owned. Subdivisions and 'souvenir' stands already exist or may soon develop in nearly all the national parks and many of the national monuments. Yet government funds to purchase 'in-holdings' have been so scanty that less than $25,000 a year is channeled to Gettysburg."

Simulated Tour
The article covered several pages and was headed: "Neon signs, junk yards and dollar-grubbing are invading many great shrines. And the most hallowed of all is being desecrated in the new Battle of Gettysburg."

The author of the piece then took a simulated tour of the battlefield. At various supposed spots he pointed out the struggle that took place there between the North and South and then added a para-

HEAR REPORTS ON N. OXFORD SEWER PLANS

New Oxford's borough-wide sewer system moved a little closer to reality Monday night as members of the borough council and the municipal authority were given a briefing from engineers and legal counsel on some of the steps necessary to establish the municipal system.

As proposed, the project will include some improvements to the borough-owned water system, including enlargement of some lines and connections which will eliminate some troublesome dead ends in main runs. A four-inch main feeding the town will be replaced by an eight-inch main.

An overhaul of the present standpipe is also intended. The improvement will assure the community of an adequate supply of water at satisfactory pressures, engineers say.

One of the steps in establishing the sewer system is the acquisition of a privately-owned system, the New Oxford Drainage Co., and borough officials are reported negotiating for its purchase.

Preliminary Report

Tracy W. Greenlund and Robert E. Donohue, of Tracy Engineers, Inc., Harrisburg, who have been making surveys in the borough, presented a preliminary report on the proposed changes to the water system and on the extension of sewer lines and construction of a sewage treatment plant.

No overall cost estimates were mentioned but it was indicated that borough residents can look forward to increases in water service charges and sewer rentals. Not all borough homes are connected.

The Vigilant Hose Co., Emmitsburg, was called Saturday at 10:30 p.m. to extinguish a fire at a concrete culvert abutment on the new Route 15 project south of Emmitsburg. The freshly poured concrete was covered with a wooden frame and tarpaulins. Approximately $275 damage was estimated to the frame work, tarpaulins and culvert end.

Led by Mrs. Clarence Bartholomew, the program will begin with the singing of "Girl Scouts Together" by the entire group.

The remainder of the program will include: "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," "Angels From the Realms of Glory" sung by Intermediate Troop 42; "Silent Night, Holy Night," "Up On the House Top" to be sung by the Brownies; "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "There's A Song In The Air," sung by Intermediate Troop 70; "Away In A Manger," "Joy To The World," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," sung by Senior Troops 3 and 21; "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas," sung by the Brownies; "The First Nowell," "Under the Stars," sung by Intermediate Troop 44; "Jingle Bells," "White Christmas" and "We Wish You A Merry Christmas."

Matador Guided Missiles Sent To Korea, Says U.N.

SEOUL (AP)—Matador guided missiles have been brought into South Korea, the United Nations Command said today.

The announcement, in answer to a press query, noted the Matador can be armed with an atomic warhead.

The announcement did not say whether nuclear warheads had been brought in with the Matador. A U.N. spokesman had no comment on the whereabouts, or number, of Matadors and when the missiles were brought in.

The U.N. Command told the Communists at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission June 21, 1957, "that the United Nations Command is taking appropriate steps to replace the outmoded weapons presently in the hands of its forces in the area with new items, as the Communists have already done in the area north of the demilitarized zone."

The armistice forbade the introduction of new weapons by either side. But the U.N.C. repeatedly charged the Communists with moving in jet bombers and fighters and other modern combat equipment. At the time of the armistice there were no planes in North Korea.

The introduction of the Matador conforms to the policy laid down at last year's meeting, the U.N. statement said.

CLAIMS GIRL STUDENT OUGHT TO BE WORKING

Should a father be required to support a child when she is capable of supporting herself, but instead is going to college?

That was the question C. Donald Rice, Lancaster, raised in Adams County court Monday.

He received no immediate answer. The court asked attorneys to file briefs in two weeks giving their opinions on the matter and such prior decisions of courts as may be pertinent.

Has Paid $4,992

Rice held that he should be relieved of the support order he had been paying for his daughter for the last 16 years. Each week for that period, he forwarded $6, as ordered, to the probation office. He is paid up to date, having paid $312 a year, or $4,992 so far.

But, Rice noted, most support orders end when the child reaches 18 and is capable of supporting himself or herself.

Rice held that his daughter is now "more than able" to support herself. Instead, she is going to a state teachers' college. He held that if she were not going to college she could support herself and that therefore he should be freed of his court order.

Approve Compromise

Attorneys argued that the daughter is "well qualified" to go to college and should have an opportunity to take advantage of it and the mother cannot keep the girl in school without the $6 per week help from the father.

The court approved the compromise for the minor in the action in trespass brought by Thomas C. Brenner, Gettysburg R. 2, and his minor daughter, Victoria L. Brenner Weitzel, against William O'Mara. The compromise provides for payment of $1,000 for the injuries, pain and suffering for the minor who was hurt in an auto accident along the Emmitsburg Rd.

William J. Gillan, Chambersburg, was ordered to return January 5 to report on whether he has secured employment and resumed payments on a support order. The former Chambersburg undertaker said he is penniless and his funeral home and equipment have been sold by the sheriff. He said he had been unable to make support payments during the last year because he was in the Adams and Franklin County jails a total of 182 days for failure to comply with support orders and in between times was unable to find employment. He said he hopes to obtain a janitorial job.

Fairfield Joint Re-elects Wills

C. A. Wills, of Hamiltonban Twp., was re-elected president of the Fairfield Joint School Board and Joseph T. Lowe, Liberty Twp., was re-elected vice president when the board reorganized at its meeting in the Fairfield school Monday night.

The board decided to eliminate use of a bridge on the Jack's Mountain Road by one of its school bus routes. The bridge, rated at two-ton capacity, is one which state highway and county school officials listed recently as of doubtful adequacy for school bus use.

The route change is minor. Children were transported across the bridge and were discharged immediately on the far side. They will now disembark where the bus stops short of the bridge and walk across.

In local board meetings, the Hamiltonban Twp. school board elected George W. Myers its president and Lloyd Benner, vice president.

The Fairfield board re-elected John J. Reindollar and J. B. Waddle, president and vice president, respectively.

dren's Hospital, according to word received from the physicians there by his parents over the weekend.

The operation is the fourth in two years for the youngster who was stricken by infantile paralysis when he was 14 months old. Since that time he has spent approximately 2½ years in various hospitals.

The operation Thursday was to transplant a tendon in his left ankle. His leg will be in a cast for six weeks, according to the physicians.

He underwent an earlier operation October 28 to fuse the left ankle. He underwent two operations a year ago to transplant a muscle and a tendon in the left leg.

A student at St. Francis Xavier School here, he attends school at the Elizabethtown Hospital while a patient there.

Kenneth S. Alwine and J. Roy Diehl Jr., the co-chairmen for the home decorations contest, said $100 in prizes will be awarded, $20 in three prizes for decorated doorways, $40 in three prizes for Christmas scenes and $40 in three prizes for overall lighting.

Tough To Break News

This is taken here to indicate that the party has still to decide how to break the news so that it will not appear that Mao, who will retain his post as party leader, is being downgraded.

Also, the party wants to educate special groups to the idea of Mao stepping out before springing the news on the people.

The general belief among Nationalists is that the 65-year-old Mao, founder of the Chinese Communist revolution, is on the way out to retirement.

There is speculation that Marshal Chu Teh, 72-year-old soldier turned politician, would succeed Mao.

Growing opposition to Mao's program is regarded as a main factor in the predicted replacement.

Communist press reports admit opposition to the program, that has uprooted the traditional pattern of Chinese family life.

Under this program, the people are herded into working communes where they live in dormitories. Children are raised by the state.

3 CHRISTMASSES ARE OBSERVED, SPEAKER SAYS

"There are three Christmases that we observe, all intertwined, the commercial, the pagan and the Christmas of the Incarnation, and each of us puts the emphasis where he chooses," Dr. Francis C. Mason, professor of English at Gettysburg College, told 105 Rotarians and wives gathered for the annual Christmas ladies' night dinner at the Hotel Gettysburg Monday evening.

"The Christmas of commerce is one in which we all more or less participate. We give gifts, but I think there is a certain element of barter there. We receive as well as give and we are delighted with what we receive. In a sense it is a form of self worship, for it provides an excuse for self indulgence, we bolster our ego by giving gifts."

"The pagan Christmas should not be condemned simply because of its name 'pagan.' By the term we refer to the pagan customs that have become blended into our observance of Christmas and many are beautiful and fascinating, and conducive to the Christmas spirit. Mistletoe comes to us from the Druids' worship and under the Druids the mistletoe was a preservative against all misfortune."

Carols "Most Expressive"

"The Yule log also comes from pagan traditions and was a magical thing. Our songs are both pagan and Christian, especially the carols which probably best blend reference to both the pagan customs and the Christian and to my mind express Christmas better than any other thing."

"And the most important Christmas of all, and the one into which the commercial and pagan Christmases are blended, is the Christmas of the Incarnation, the birth of Christ."

"In nature, things seem somehow doubled. Silence follows sound, night follows day, and we find at Christmas sorrow mingled with joy. We find, mingled with the joy of the thought of the cradle, the sorrow of the expectation of the cross."

Reads Poem

Dr. Mason concluded his talk by reading a number of poems including Edna St. Vincent Millay's "To Jesus On His Birthday," T. S. Eliot's "Journey of the Magi," Mae Probin's "Christmas Carol," Theodosia Garretson's "Ballad of the Cross" and Charles Dolman's "Ballad of the Epiphany."

Mark Tice, district governor of Rotary, praised the Gettysburg High School choir for its singing and told the Rotarians: "One of our obligations is to set an example for youth, for our example will help shape the future."

H. Edgar Riegler introduced Joseph Sharrar, a senior at Gettysburg High School who is student Rotarian for the month.

GHS Choir Sings

The 75-voice high school choir, led by Paul Grove, sang a number of Christmas selections including the Fred Waring arrangement of "Song of Christmas" for which the narrator was Roger Craver.

The annual meeting of the 15 NATO foreign ministers opened with (1) Britain and France screaming at each other about trade discrimination; (2) the United States and France quarreling openly about military policy; and (3) Greece, Turkey and Britain disputing over Cyprus.

Among the points in the allied reply was a reminder that Moscow has not responded to the Big

ELLIS WORTZ SHOT IN LEG HUNTING DEER

Ellis Wortz, 45, Chambersburg, formerly of Fairfield, suffered a gunshot wound of the right thigh Monday afternoon while hunting deer about a half mile from the home of his sister, Mrs. Dwight Strausbaugh, Orrtanna R. D.

George Burdick, land management assistant from the Huntingdon office of the state Game Commission, who is replacing Paul Glenn as local state game protector while Mr. Glenn is a patient at the Warner Hospital, said Wortz was shot by a stray soft-nosed bullet apparently fired by a hunter nearby.

The bullet entered the front of Mr. Wortz's leg, near the hip, and went out the rear of the leg after breaking the bone.

"My Leg's Shot Off"

Mr. Wortz, following his usual custom during hunting season, had gone to the home of his sister, and had hunted on the Strausbaugh property during the morning. He returned to the Strausbaugh home at noon and then about 1 o'clock left the home to hunt in a woods about a half mile from the house. The woods was directly west of an orchard near the Strausbaugh house.

Several other hunters in the wooded area heard several shots about 2 o'clock and heard Mr. Wortz cry out: "My leg has been shot off."

A New Oxford couple unknown to the Strausbaughs were the first to reach Mr. Wortz. They secured the assistance of Glenn Raffensperger, South St., who was driving on a nearby road.

One hunter rushed to the Strausbaugh house to secure aid. Dr. James H. Hammett, Fairfield, was called. The family said Dr. Hammett arrived within 12 minutes and gave first aid to Mr. Wortz where he lay in the mountain.

Unhurt Through War

Raffensperger called the Gettysburg Fire Department ambulance which arrived, according to the Strausbaugh family in 16 minutes, pulling up to the Strausbaugh home just as a Strausbaugh truck bearing the injured man arrived at the house from the hill behind the home.

Wortz was removed to the Warner Hospital where he

"HOPEFUL DREAMS"

If all the hopeful dreams of man . . . were fastened end to end . . . they'd wind around this great big world . . . then to the moon ascend . . . for hopeful dreaming is indeed . . . a pastime of mankind . . . call it wishful thinking . . . or tangents of the mind . . . these thoughts we manufacture . . . so seldom will come true . . . and yet they have become a part . . . of all that we pursue . . . told of in song and story . . . they start when we are young . . . lingering throughout the years . . . their song is always sung . . . but every once so often . . . one will materialize . . . renewing fading lights of faith . . . and making spirits rise . . . that's how it goes as time rolls on . . . we sail uncharted streams . . . fortified with faith in God . . . and tender hopeful dreams.

prayer given by Phyllis Eby. Eileen Crouse discussed the topic "Difficult Decision."

CALHOUN BEATS
TIGER JONES

CLEVELAND (AP) — Middleweight Rory Calhoun can absorb plenty of punishment and still be dangerous. Ask Ralph (Tiger) Jones.

Calhoun, cut near both eyes in the early rounds of a 10-round bout with Jones Monday night, kept hammering away and earned a unanimous decision. The victory avenged a loss to Jones in Madison Square Garden last month.

Larry Atkins, promoter of the scrap, said he had offered Carmen Basilio $25,000 to meet the winner. However, the former welterweight and middleweight champion did not say whether he would accept the match.

Had Trouble Seeing

The 24-year-old Calhoun of White Plains, N. Y., staggered Jones in the sixth, seventh and 10th rounds, although he had trouble seeing because of the cuts.

Calhoun at 150½ had a 4½-pound weight advantage over his 30-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., opponent.

The closed fought battle brought the 6,415 fans at the Cleveland News toyshop fund fight show to their feet cheering in the final minutes.

But rooters for Jones, who was a 7-5 underdog, booed the decision. Judge Herb Williams scored 48-45, Judge Charles Bill scored 48-44 and Referee Mike Minnich had it 47-43, all for Calhoun. The Associated Press gave Calhoun a 46-45 edge.

Three proposals Sept. 30 to begin work at an expert level on German reunification, with a summit meeting the eventual goal. Moscow repeatedly has refused to discuss reunification saying the Communist East German regime must arrange this with West Germany. West Germany and the Big Three refused to deal with the satellite regime and say Germany can be unified only by free elections throughout the divided nation.

May Separate Troops

NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak said it was very likely that the ministers would discuss various plans to separate troops facing each other along the Iron Curtain, including the Rapacki plan for a central European zone free of nuclear weapons.

Should the Western notes indicate willingness to discuss the entire area of cold war strategy without any prior conditions, this might meet with Soviet sympathy. Meanwhile, American diplomatic and military planners were reviewing how to deal with the Russians and East Germans should Khrushchev carry out his Nov. 27 threat. He said if the Berlin free city plan was not accepted, the Soviet Union would give East Germany control over Allied access to West Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside the Communist state.

graph to strengthen his attack on the spread of commercialism. Here are some of the author's attacks on commercialism:

"Invaded" Areas

"Today, a monument to Buford commands the site, with the cannon that fired the opening shot at its base. And 30 feet away: a 'free museum,' souvenir stand and cabins."

"Today, in this bloody area, signs advertise 150 acres for sale by Adams County — as house building lots."

"Today new homes sprout on the right flank of the Confederate line: 24-pound howitzers serve as lawn decorations."

"Today, a motel and tavern mark the spot where Hood's crack Texas Brigade pushed across the Emmitsburg Road; a gasoline station and souvenir shop stand near the place Barksdale fell."

"Today at the scene of the morning battle an auto graveyard flourishes. A rusting auto marks the spot where Meade's field headquarters stood."

"Today, three and a half acres bordering the cemetery are owned by a large steel corporation. The men who died at Gettysburg sleep within 100 yards of a potential factory site."

"Twenty years ago we could have purchased all the land we now need for $5 million." Conrad L. Wirth, director of the Park Service, said recently "But in those days no money was earmarked for land purchase. Now we receive $1½ million a year from Congress. At this rate, and with land prices soaring, it could take another 50 or 60 years and more than $100 million to complete the boundaries."

"The 'new battle of Gettysburg' — and other battles being fought elsewhere — will not end until Americans everywhere decide they want to preserve, inviolate, a place where brave men fought and died."

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

FIFTY YEARS AGO

General Local Jottings: The Red Cross Christmas stamp has become very popular, and rightly so, for its message is one of helpfulness. The stamps are issued by the National Red Cross Society for the purpose of raising funds to stamp out tuberculosis. Each stamp costs a penny, each bears the words "Merry Christmas" and "American National Red Cross, 1908" and the penny from the sale of each goes to the Red Cross fund for combating the spread of tuberculosis.

Miss Helen Julius has resigned as assistant at Littlestown Post office and Miss Bess Fissel, daughter of Sheriff-elect Elias Fissel, is filling the position.

Thieves stole out of the cellar all the pudding and meat of Mrs. John Riggel of near Nary's Mill.

Twelve fine turkeys were stolen from Mrs. Charles C. Smith, Mountpleasant township while she was at church.

In The County: A movement is on foot to install an electric light plant in the hustling town of Biglerville.

The Musselman Canning Company, at Biglerville, intends to add a box factory to their plant and have already ordered the machinery for the new addition.

The sale of the Pope automobile factory at Hagerstown to the Montrose Metal Casket Co. has been ratified, the price being $57,500.

Real Estate Sales: Howard G. Blocher, executor of the estate of Jacob Riffle, sold at public sale last Tuesday the property on East King street, Littlestown, and the factory building on M street, to James D. Spalding of that place, the former property bringing $1235 and the latter $1175.

The "Marks" property on Cemetery Avenue, Littlestown, was purchased by Wm. H. Colehouse for $2050. Ten bonds of the Littlestown Silk Company were knocked down to Charles L. Riffle for $1011.4.

Local Miscellany: A charter was granted at the State Department last Tuesday to the Adams County Electric Light, Heat and Power Company of Gettysburg; capital stock, $5,000.

J. B. Solt, living on the Trostle Farm, presented us with a mammoth ear of corn. It contains 22 rows and over 1100 grains.

William Long's Restaurant, Carlisle St., was entered Saturday night and three gallons of oysters carried off.

Skunks Plentiful: Emanuel King, of McKnightstown, captured 13 skunks one day last week. He caught ten of them in one muskrat hole.

Down The Pike: The entertainment "Down the Pike" given by the pupils of the High school Friday and Saturday evenings was a great success. The Meade building presented a beautiful appearance and the many attractions were well gotten up. The pupils were attired in various costumes, representing Indians, cow boys, dukes, &c. A considerable amount was realized which will be expended for books for the library.

Arendtsville Items: J. Lewis Kane, a member of the Kane Hunting Club, of near this place, claims the honor of shooting the first deer that was shot in this vicinity when the season first opened.

Mrs. Ellen Wagner has sold her farm of 47 acres, near this place, to Isaiah D. Knouss, for $1600. Owing to the cold winter weather setting in, the work of the construction of the macadamized road between this place and Biglerville will be discontinued until next spring.

The meeting of the Adams County Christian Endeavor Society held in this place last Friday and Saturday was well attended and good speakers were present.

Robert E. Spangler, of near Gettysburg, spent several days last week cleaning and tuning pianos and organs.

Today's Talk

THE OPEN FIREPLACE

How many things seem to shape up just like life. I write this little talk before an open fireplace. How like life it is!

As the match is applied to the fine kindling and slender sticks there is a bursting of flames and heat — like youth. Then as the larger logs take their flames, there is an evenness and intensity according to the quality of wood — like early and middle life. Then there is a lessening of blazing heat and warmth, and soon simply a mass of coals — wonderful and remarkable, comforting and quiet and inspiring — like the end of a well-spent life. Then the ashes — into which every one of us, no matter of what moment, must disappear.

Is not the simile beautiful? I feel like talking, to the open fireplace and thanking it for its warmth and kindness and love. For it seems to give all of these — and more.

Then I say to myself that I shall try to make my life like an open fireplace, so that people may be warmed and cheered by it, to go out themselves to warm and cheer.

Somewhat, I hope these little talks may in their way be open fireplaces to the souls of people — to you — whoever you are and wherever you may be. Thank you, Reader.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Meeting a Happy Person"

Just Folks

HE GIVES HER OPINION

"I think that you are Santa Claus,"

"Last night she said to me; 'That you buy all these toys and things'

"T. trim our Christmas tree,"

And then said I: "My dear, what put

"Such notions in your mind?"

"Because," she said, "there's no one else

"Who could be quite so kind."

"There's no one just like Santa Claus,"

The teacher said today.

"Cuz he's the best man in the world."

An I thought right away

The best man in the world's my pa;

I'm sure of that because

He always is so good and kind;

An' so you're Santa Claus.

An' I've been thinkin' right along

That Santa must be you.

That no one else would do the things

For me you always do.

An' if it's really true that you

Are Santa Claus, I'm glad

'Cuz you're the kindest Santa Claus

The world has ever had."

Now when a trusting child of six

Declares such faith in you

And brushes all your faults away,

What are you going to do?

You're going to turn away, as I,

To hide the shame you know,

And swallow hard upon a lump

And wish it could be so.

educational meeting of the teachers of Mountjoy township was held in Horner's School house. J. O. Applier, teacher. The following named teachers were present: Messrs. J. O. and I. W. Applier, C. C. Little and Ruby Walker.

The first topic: "Manner of Conducting a Class Recitation" was discussed by Miss Ruby Walker and John Applier. There are two ways conducting a class recitation — oral and written; both have their advantages.

Second topic: "To What Extent Would You Allow Whispering?" was discussed by Messrs. C. C. Little, U. W. Applier and J. W. Black. The speakers all agreed that there was no harm in whispering when it was about the lesson and conducted in an undertone, so as not to disturb anyone in the school room. They went on to show that some whispering was an advantage, rather than a disadvantage, to the teacher as well as the pupils.

TRY AGAIN ON NY NEWSPAPER STRIKE TODAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators, deadlocked in disagreement, try again today to end the continuing shutdown of nine major New York daily newspapers.

Joseph F. Finnegan, top national mediator, meets again with the striking Newspaper Mail and Deliverers Union and the Publishers Assn. of New York City against a backdrop of pessimism and mounting losses on both sides.

The publishers association said after Monday's talks: "There was no effort on the part of the union to come back to the bargaining table as an alternative to shutting down the press of the world's greatest metropolitan area."

Asher Schwartz, attorney for the union, told newsmen: "The main stumbling block is the unwillingness of the publishers to discuss any of our proposals."

Struck Week Ago

The 4,300-member deliverymen's union struck the papers a week ago in a dispute over wages and working conditions. The walkout followed a rank-and-file rejection of a $7-a-week wage package offer that had been tentatively accepted by union negotiators.

Schwartz said the Deliverers' Union, which originally asked a $10 weekly wage package, is now willing to take the publishers' $7 package spread over two years—provided other contract benefits are included.

The basic wage for deliverymen is now $103.82 a week.

The union has also modified its demand for a reduction in the 40-hour work week, Schwartz said. Instead of a 35-hour week as originally asked, the union is prepared to accept a 37-hour week, with the reduction in hours spread over two years, he said.

A publishers spokesman called the proposal for a shorter work week fantastic.

QUIZ BOY IN MAN'S MURDER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Delaware County detectives questioned a badly frightened boy again Monday in their hunt for the killer of Joseph Elmer.

The boy, Ronald Gallagher, 13, was in Elmer's delicatessen in suburban East Lansdowne Saturday. He was slugged unconscious by a holdup man who forced the 36-year-old shopkeeper to kneel, and then pumped four .32 caliber bullets into him.

The Gallagher boy was taken to Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital for treatment of a head wound. State Police Detective Earl G. Lasser questioned him Sunday, and said later:

"He is still upset and quite frightened. We received no fruitful information from the boy."

Detectives have only the bullets taken from Elmer's body and a scanty description of the killer to work on. The description was supplied by a tenant in the building who caught a fleeting glimpse of the slayer as he fled.

MADE CRIME PAY

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—John Richard Gilmore, 19, paid a $15 fine for stealing nine old tires valued by the owner at $18. But police figure Gilmore still made crime pay. He had peddled the tires for $137, officers said.

NIKITA HURLS BITTER ATTACK AT RED GROUP

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has hurled a bitter new attack at the Malenkov-Molotov "antiparty group," blaming it for major shortcomings in Soviet agriculture.

Khrushchev's new blast, made at a meeting Monday of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, came after a new press campaign against the five high officials Khrushchev toppled from power in the Kremlin shake-up in July 1957.

Accounts of the speech today in Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave no indication of whether further measures would be taken against the five men—ex-Premiers Georgi Malenkov and Nicolai Bulganin, former Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov and Dimitri Shepilov and former economic czar Lazar Kaganovich. All have been banished to obscure posts in the Soviet Union.

No Mention Of Serov

Nor was there any mention of Gen. Ivan Serov, who was removed last week from his key post as chief of state security, the Soviet Union's top police official. Serov's future has not been announced, but so far he has not been linked with the antiparty group.

Khrushchev claimed Malenkov, Molotov and their disgraced associates:

1. "Tried to stifle the patriotic movement for catching up with the United States in per capita production of livestock produce."

2. Opposed the virgin lands project, a pet Khrushchev scheme which he boasted had proved the key factor in bringing a record grain production of 140 million tons this year.

Responsible For Troubles

3. Attempted to "revise the party's general Leninist line on basic issues of the country's development." (In this he said they "failed ingloriously.")

4. "Stubbornly opposed for a number of years the realization of important measures in agriculture and thereby retarded the development of the Soviet economy."

The group, he continued, was responsible for "the difficult situation in agriculture that developed by 1953." He accused Malenkov of deceiving the party to cover up his failures.

Khrushchev boasted that despite the shortcomings in various fields of agriculture, the Soviet Union already is ahead of the United States in total production of wool, butter, milk and cotton.

He said the group was "responsible for the failure to develop the country's agriculture and thereby retarded the development of the Soviet economy."

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Mercer County youth was named today as the State Star Farmer of Pennsylvania by the Future Farmers of America. It is the organization's highest honor at the statewide level.

ADAMS WILL TAKE OVER ON M'BRIDE'S JOB

HARRISBURG (AP)—Harrington Adams, deputy attorney general since 1939, was named Monday by Gov. George M. Leader to head the Justice Department for the remainder of the present administration.

Leader named Adams acting attorney general after Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride resigned to accept an appointment to the State Supreme Court.

Adams, of Bethlehem, was an assistant district attorney of Northampton County from 1932 to 1936. He will serve as acting attorney general until Gov.-elect David L. Lawrence takes office and appoints a new attorney general.

For Part Of Term

McBride, 56-year-old Philadelphia attorney, was appointed to the job two years ago this month. He said in a letter to Leader Monday that it has been "the most productive and satisfying period of my life." His resignation was effective immediately.

"I resign by post now and, although my formal service under you, like your years of noble service to the people, comes to an end, you are to me now and always will be—the governor."

Wave Of King-sized Thefts Being Probed

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—King-sized thefts being investigated by police:

A truck-trailer rig, with a giant construction tractor on the trailer, stolen from a truck terminal parking lot.

A 16-foot house trailer towed away from the Wilmet Mann home.

A 10-foot pine tree, uprooted from F. F. Hintze's lawn and found propped on the front porch of a University of Utah fraternity house.

VALUED VIOLIN IS FOUND AFTER YEARS' SEARCH

PITTSBURGH (AP)—After years of watching and waiting, violinist Kenn Linge of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra finally owns a valuable Violluame violin.

Linge first saw the violin in a Pittsburgh shop several years ago.

"I wanted that violin more than any other instrument I have ever played," he said. "But when it was available I just didn't have the money."

Had Been To Europe

When Linge obtained enough money to buy the instrument it had been sold and the dealer said his chances of finding it again were "one-in-a-million."

"I prayed to St. Anthony," Linge said, "and never really gave up hope that some day the Violluame and I would meet again."

They did. While in New York with the orchestra recently for a concert, Linge acted on a tip from another musician and went to a shop. There he found the Violluame and bought it. Linge said the violin had been to Vienna, Paris and back to New York since he first saw it.

A Collector's Item

Linge declined to say what he paid for the violin.

"Years from now its value will increase five fold," he said. "It is a collector's item."

He said the Violluame is an exact copy of the Allard Stradivarius.

"Put both of them side by side and it would take an expert eye to pick out which is which," he said. "In sound it is comparable to the Stradivarius."

"It doesn't run into the money you would pay for a Stradivarius. In buying collector's items the price hinges on who owned it before and what the individual wants to pay. It's like buying a used car. However, I am very proud of it."

His resignation was effective immediately.

Bullets Wilt After Good Start And Bow To Mules; Freshmen Win With Ease

After leading through the first 14 minutes of play, the Gettysburg College cagers weakened and fell slowly but steadily behind as they dropped an 81-62 decision to the unbeaten Muhlenberg dribblers here Monday evening. It was the fifth loss in six outings for the Bullets and the fifth straight triumph for the Mules.

Bob Hulton's outfit got off to a fast start on goals by Walt McGowan, John Warner and Del Warfel before Steve Matell netted the Mules' first points on a goal after 4:02 minutes.

At the midway point in the first half Gettysburg was on top 16-12. A foul by Mel Kessler and hook shot by Dick Sekunda enabled the visitors to tie the count at 22-22 after 14:30 and then Matell gave the Mules their first lead with a goal. Frank Grzelecki and Matell exchanged goals. Warfel knotted the score at 26-26 on a stab but Sekunda caged two free throws and Muhlenberg never trailed thereafter, zooming its lead to 36-28 at half time on layups by Bill Dissinger, Kessler and Sekunda.

Mules Pull Away

Matell opened the second half with a set shot and then the Bullets spurred mildly on successive goals by McGowan, Warfel and Jack Hathaway to cut the lead to 38-34. Seven straight points by the Mules gave the invaders a comfortable margin which was never seriously threatened as the Bullets lost their fire and scrap. Muhlenberg used its height to advantage and scored consistently from underneath with Matell providing most of the outside shooting.

Warfel, McGowan and Grzelecki hit in double figures for the Bullets with 19, 15 and 12. Matell rammed through 25 for Muhlenberg and Kessler and Sekunda each tabbed 19.

Tonight the Bullets journey to University Park to meet Penn State (0-2). The Lions' losses were to top ranked North Carolina State and West Virginia by narrow margins.

Fresh Run Wild

Howie Shoemaker's freshmen turned in another fine all-around exhibition in outclassing York Junior College in the preliminary game 93-59 for their third win against two losses. The yearlings led by a wide margin from start to finish.

The freshmen will be idle until January 7 when they meet the Navy Plebes at Annapolis.

N. Y. YANKEES TOP PITCHERS IN AMERICAN

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Yankees pitching staff, headed by Whitey Ford and Bob Turley, again topped the American League in performance the past season.

Official league statistics released today show the Yankee staff posted a 3.22 earned run average far ahead of second place Baltimore's 3.40. Ford, the chunky southpaw, led all individuals with a 2.01 mark.

Detroit was third with a 3.59 average, followed by Chicago's 3.61, Cleveland's 3.73; Boston's 3.92, Kansas City's 4.15 and Washington's 4.53.

Turley Only 20-Game Man

Trailing Ford among the individual leaders were southpaw Billy Pierce of Chicago with 2.68, southpaw Jack Harshman of Baltimore with 2.90, right-hander Frank Lary of Detroit with 2.91, left-hander Billy O'Dell of Baltimore with 2.97, right-hander Turley with 2.98 and right-hander Cal McLish of Cleveland with 2.99.

Turley was the league's only 20-game winner with a 21-7 record and a .750 percentage — tops among pitchers who worked 154 or more innings. Second to Turley in victories was Pierce with 17. Despite his great record, Turley again led the loop in walks with 128, only two of which were intentional.

7 Ford Shutouts

Turley, Pierce and Lary tied for most complete games with 19, while Ford was tops in shutouts with seven. Turley had six.

Washington's Pete Ramos, fast-balling right-hander, faced the most batters, 1,015; allowed the most hits, 277; the most homers, 38; the most runs, 133, and started the most games, 37. Lary pitched the most innings, 260.

Chicago right-hander Early Wynn was tops with 179 strikeouts and upped his career total to 6,037.

Two no-hit games were recorded. Jim Bunning, Detroit right-hander, accomplished the feat against Boston, July 20; and Baltimore right-hander Hoyt Wilhelm, a National League castoff, came through against the Yankees exactly two months later.

Meet Penn State On Lions Floor Tonight

Above is the Gettysburg College varsity basketball squad which closes out its pre-holiday schedule tonight by meeting Penn State University at University Park. The Bullets have a 1-5 mark while the Lions are 0-2, having bowed to strong North Carolina State 70-54 and West Virginia 78-63.

Botula Will Be Grid Captain For PSU

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Fullback Pat Botula will be captain of the 1959 Penn State football team.

Botula, 20, first string fullback for the Nittany Lions this year, was selected by his teammates Monday night. Although he missed 4½ games because of an injury, he still wound up the year as the team's No. 2 ground gainer.

The hard-running fullback, a graduate of South Hills High School in Pittsburgh, was described by Coach Rip Engle as, "the best fullback we've had since I've been here."

Engle, who has coached the Nittany Lions for nine years, said Botula also was a "grand boy" and would be a "fine leader."

FIVE HUNTERS LOSE LIVES AS SEASON OPENS

HARRISBURG (AP)—Shooting accidents and heart attacks took the lives of at least five hunters in Pennsylvania during the opening day of the special three-day antlerless deer season.

Three hunters were fatally wounded in hunting accidents on opening day Monday and two others fell dead of heart attacks.

Scattered reports indicated that hunting conditions varied greatly across the state with poor kills of the antlerless deer in heavy snow areas to moderately good kills in other areas.

Fatally Injured

Edward Resavy Sr., 60, of Durysa, was fatally injured in a hunting accident in Wyoming County about two miles south of Levelton. State Trooper Mauro Ford of Tunkhannock, said a bullet from a rifle fired by Frank Pernot, 56, of Pittsburg, ricocheted off a rock and struck Resavy in the chest, killing him instantly.

Delmar Emerick, 22, of Schuylkill Haven, was killed while hunting deer on Sculpin Hill near Auburn, 12 miles south of Pottsville. State police said they had not learned the circumstances.

Two hunters were wounded seriously in hunting accidents on opening day and two others were wounded less seriously.

BEARCATS IN COURT LEAD BY SLIM MARGIN

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati, Kentucky and Kansas State kept on winning basketball games last week and held their 1-2-3 positions in the second weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

But the ballots of 105 sports writers and broadcasters made it a lot closer contest for first place than a week ago.

Cincinnati's Bearcats, who have maintained a 96-point scoring average while winning their first three games this season, edged out Kentucky by just one first-place vote and 28 points. Cincinnati had 40 firsts and 938 points, on the usual basis of 10 points for each first, 9 for second, etc. Kentucky had 39 and 910.

Setback For W. Va.

Cincinnati rolled over Marshall 106-86 in its only game last week while Kentucky beat Southern Methodist 72-60 and St. Louis 76-57. In the first weekly AP poll Cincinnati was ahead of Kentucky 38-20 in first places and 834-695 in points.

Kansas State, winner over California and San Francisco by a total of four points, held third place with 741 points.

West Virginia, fourth a week ago, suffered a 75-72 setback at Virginia's hands Saturday after winning its first five games and dropped to seventh, barely beating out Mississippi State, North Carolina State and Tennessee moved up one notch to fourth and fifth. Northwestern, idle last week, jumped from tenth to sixth as Kansas and St. Louis were knocked out of the first 10.

The Top Twenty

Xavier of Ohio and North Carolina took over ninth and tenth places.

Erdelatz Denies Coaching Offer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—"I give you my word of honor," said Navy football Coach Eddie Erdelatz, "they have not contacted me about being coach of the San Francisco 49ers."

The successful Navy mentor's name has been bandied about for the San Francisco job which 49ers Coach Frankie Albert has quit.

What if he is offered the job? Erdelatz wouldn't say what his reaction would be.

"I don't want to get involved in anything," he said, so I don't want to say any more about it."

Erdelatz has been coach at the Naval Academy nine years, a span in which his teams have won 50 games, lost 26 and tied 8.

TICKETS FOR PLAYOFF TILT ARE IN DEMAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe it is time to destroy a weary legend—that New York is a blasé take-it-in-stride sports town.

The weather outside was sub-freezing Monday. Remnants of snow lingered.

Yet football tickets were the hottest item in town.

The tickets were for the game Sunday between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Browns in Yankee Stadium.

Long, chilled lines of fans had stormed the stadium ticket windows until almost midnight Sunday after the Giants' 13-10 victory had set up a tie and a playoff for the Eastern Conference championship in the National Football League.

The Giants' chief downtown ticket outlet at Grand Central Station attracted winding queues of buyers. Season ticket holders jammed the lobby of the Columbus Circle building where the Giants' office is located.

Even the Giants' coach, Jim Lee Howell, was pressed into service at the ticket windows.

Only the players had a day off. Howell was so pleased with the Giants' play that he also declared Tuesday a holiday. Workouts for Sunday's game will start Wednesday. The Browns will practice in Cleveland as they did last week.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Esteban falls through a trap door into the bedroom of a mole. Esteban tells the mole about the professor's plan to kill all the fairies and asks for help. The mole tells him the Snuke will take him to Santa Land where he can get help.

CHAPTER ELEVEN A TRIP UNDERGROUND

"Don't you agree," asked the mole, "that the Snuke can get you to Santa Land?"

"Pardon me," faltered Esteban, "but I never heard of the Snuke."

"Good gracious! Don't ever let him hear you didn't know who he was. He is very sensitive."

"Yes, sir," said Esteban. "But who is he?"

"He is my cousin. He lives in the sea instead of on land and where I dig through earth he digs through ice. So you see he is the very one who can get through all that ice in Santa Land."

"Wonderful!" cried Esteban. Then his face fell. "But how will I find the Snuke?"

"That's easy," replied the mole. "I will take you to him. We have wonderful roads. I'm a road engineer, you know, and my brothers and I have build fine roads that circle under this whole land."

"Come with me now. We'll take this short cut I just made from the main road."

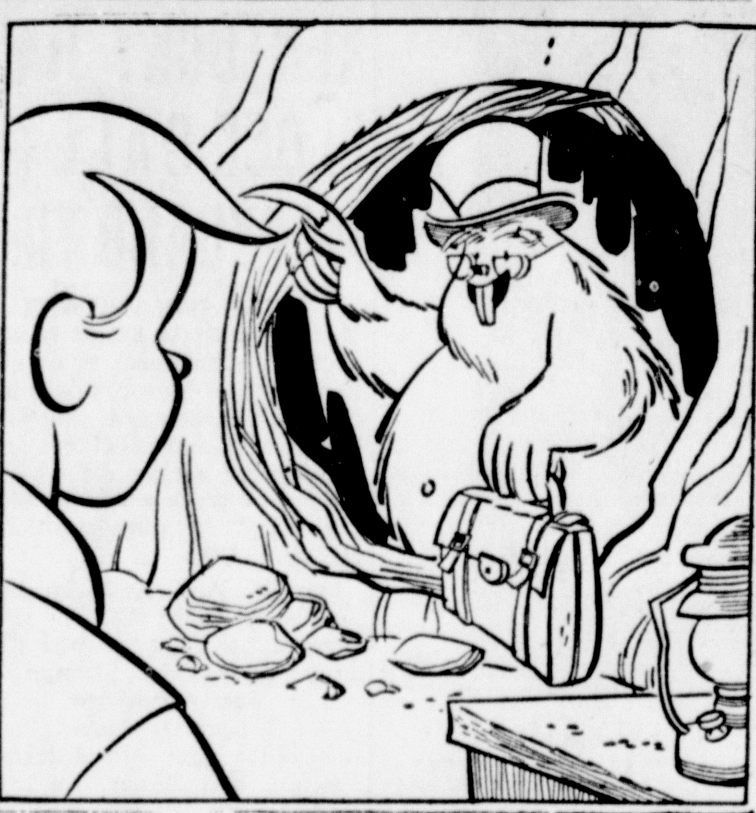

With that he snatched up his brief case, put on his top hat and disappeared through the hole in the wall. Esteban stared at the hole in dismay. Squeezing himself as small as he could he would never be able to get through. After a moment the mole reappeared. "Come on!" He beckoned impatiently.

"B-but I-I'm too big!" stammered Esteban.

The mole clicked his tongue in exasperation. "Tch, tch! I forgot about that. Well, never mind. I'll get help and we'll make the roads larger."

He disappeared and presently Esteban heard the familiar scraping sound. But this time it sounded as though a whole army was scraping.

Suddenly the whole side of the room did break open and the mole bounced in and said, "Bring the lamp and come along."

"I will take you to the Snuke," said the friendly mole.

UNION SPENDS $24,800.58 TO MAKE CLEANUP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said that appointment of ex-Sen. George Bender to head a Teamsters Union cleanup committee has cost the union nearly $25,000 so far.

Of the total, said Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee, $15,750 represents fees paid to Bender since his appointment last Aug. 18 by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

McClellan said information obtained by the committee shows that Bender charged the Teamsters for 63 working days, over a period of about three months, at the rate of $250 a day.

Paid Personal Secretary

In addition, McClellan said, the union has spent $3,000 for the salary of Bender's personal secretary and lesser amounts for postage, telephone bills and other expenses to bring the total to $24,800.58.

The expenditures were detailed by McClellan in a letter to Martin F. O'Donoghue, chairman of a court-appointed board of monitors for the scandal-ravaged Teamsters Union.

McClellan told O'Donoghue he was bringing the matter to his attention because of "your interest in possible wasteful duplication of Teamsters Union funds."

"They're Satisfied"

Bender said there was nothing new in the money figures—that Bender himself had already released them.

He said the financial arrangement was worked out in advance with union officials and "they're satisfied with it."

Pigeon Case Going To Superior Court

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)— Are racing pigeons essential as Army reservists subject to immediate recall or are they dirty birds and undesirable in a city?

The Pittsburgh chapter of the American Racing Pigeon Union says racing pigeons are essential members of a community, especially since the Army has disbanded its own pigeon corps.

But Judge Benjamin Lencher has upheld municipal rulings that the birds are pests and undesirable. His ruling requires a Pittsburgh man to get rid of his flock of racing pigeons by Dec. 31.

The pigeon union says it will ask Pennsylvania Superior Court to settle the question.

KING COBRAS ARE STAYING "REFORMED"

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The King Cobras, who reformed publicly 10 months ago, have made it stick.

They're the juvenile gang members who gave a "restitution dinner" last February after some of them took part in a grocery burglary.

The dinner netted $133.08 to more than repay the grocer. A judge gave them another chance.

"They're making good," said James L. White, executive director of Neighborhood House, Inc., ator from Ohio, was named by Hoffa after the board of monitors had been charged by a federal judge with responsibility for overseeing the affairs of the union and conducting a housecleaning.

Five Killed In Series Of Gas Blasts At Allentown

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A darkroom technician who wanted to be a newspaper photographer stopped on his way home from work to take pictures of a gas main explosion. Minutes later, he and five other curious spectators lost their lives in a second blast.

Lester S. Kraft Jr. 29, a camera bug hired last September by the Allentown Call-Chronicle, was driving home late Saturday night after work. As he reached the outskirts of this southeastern Pennsylvania city, he saw a huge jet of flaming gas shoot up through the street paving from a broken main.

He parked and ran with his camera to the front porch of the 120-year-old Mountaineer Hotel, a good spot from which to see the spectacular fire. Others also had gathered on the porch, or near it, to watch.

Other Blasts Follow

Minutes later the second explosion ripped the building apart. Tons of brick and stone buried the six victims. Twenty-three others were injured, two critically.

The second blast was followed by a series of lesser explosions as leaking gas ignited in the streets around the hotel.

WORLD ON WHEELS THE DRIVER'S SEAT

By FLOYD CLYMER

TO LONDON AND BACK —

After a fast flight in Pan American's Boeing 707 Jet, I landed at London airport in 6 hours and 23 minutes from New York — faster than to fly from Los Angeles to New York. Smooth and silent at 600 mph and at 35,000 foot altitude, the Jet was something to fly in. However, the return trip by SAS over the Polar route direct from Copenhagen to Los Angeles with one stop for fuel at Winnipeg, Canada was likewise an interesting one. Place a flat map on a table and it appears that the New York route between Los Angeles and London is shortest, but that isn't so by a long shot.

British car makers are very busy and exports are up. With markets in every country, the British are past masters on world trade. The new Hillman and the new Daimler are attracting a lot of attention. Daimler is an old name and, while production of this high-quality car is limited, it enjoys prestige and sales to distinguished people. Most famous, of course, are the Royal family who have used Daimler cars for three generations. British Government officials likewise are supplied with Daimlers. Most people figure that Rolls-Royce is the finest of cars made in Britain, if not the world. There are, however, those who claim Daimler is the world's best.

Two Quality Makers
INTERESTING NOTE is how the two quality makers of Britain have been forced to adopt automatic transmissions in their finest cars. Daimler uses the American - designed but British-built Borg-Warner unit, while Rolls-Royce uses Hydra-Matic, which they have altered somewhat for what they claim is a better shifting arrangement.

ECONOMY CAR ACCESSORY SALES WILL BE HIGH — It now appears that buyers of the new U.S. makes of economy cars will be spending from $150.00 to $250.00 in addition to the price of the car for optional equipment items. Experts figure that 100 million dollars or more will be spent by buyers when the new small cars are available for delivery. With Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler apparently getting into the act, this additional business should be a boon to accessory makers. Time was when Henry Ford built his Model T with few if any optional equipment items available. As a result thousands of gadget makers supplied the demand for over 5,000 items that helped, or at least the makers claimed they did, to make the Model T a better and more comfortable car. Even with present lowest priced models of the "big three" a survey shows that the average owner spent $183.00 per car, not including V8 engine, for options which account for a $200.00 increase at retail prices.

"Unwanted Items"

Even the average buyer complains about cars being "loaded" with unwanted items, the fact remains that the "stripped" or "price leader" car just does not sell as advertised. Buyers do want the optional equipment.

STUDEBAKER LARK IS HIT — The new Lark by Studebaker has apparently "caught on," judging by advance sales and dealer enthusiasm. Its November share of the market was 2.5 per cent of the domestic car market which doubled Studebaker's penetration on prior models. Factory employees have formed a group to boost the sales of the car they build and enthusiasm is at high pitch in South Bend, where Studebaker employs throughout the years have been considered the most loyal and have struck for the longest period of time with one car make. Surely all car enthusiasts, whether they buy Studebaker or not, are pleased to see the fine come-back of such a famous old firm that has built quality cars throughout the years, but who have had financial ups and downs as well that would have ruined most companies.

SMALL CAR INTEREST INCREASES — Volkswagen of Germany is building approximately 2,000 cars and 400 wagons a day, and Renault of France is increasing production line mad in an all-out effort to catch and overtake VW in sales. Chrysler is aiming for a large share of the small car market with the French-built Simca which they now distribute. With Rambler and the Lark presently being the only small U.S.-built cars the race for 1959 will be an interesting one. Realizing that service is important Renault recently started flying parts from France to the U.S. for their more than 600 distributors and dealers. They expect to cut costs in doing so. Savings are said to result, due to elimination of packing and handling costs despite the higher transportation rates for air shipments.

There's no doubt that turnpikes are safer and better geared to today's automobile and traffic load than old roads.

Queries of turnpike officials and toll road patrol officers throughout the nation, however, have brought to light a peculiar superhighway problem.

In the words of Captain Alva R. Funk, veteran commanding officer of the Indiana state police detachment patrolling the Indiana toll road:

"... the very ease of driving and the absence of many traditional traffic obstacles (on turnpikes) lull the driver into a false sense of security."

Exit Ramp Problems

One tough turnpike accident problem, according to officials, centers around exit ramps.

Although toll road authorities take special pains to educate drivers about how to behave on the big roads they report there are always motorists who miss turn-offs.

That's why toll roads are building bigger directional signs, re-educating them so they can be seen easily at night as well as by day.

When an experienced driver misses a turn-off, he is smart enough to proceed to the next exit. But others cross the median strip into oncoming traffic, or — worse yet — back up and then turn off.

Advice From Experts

To avoid serious accidents or heavy fines, take some advice from the experts on what to do if you miss your turn-off:

(1) Proceed to the next exit. It's your safest course.

(2) If, for urgent reasons, you must get off at the missed exit, pull well onto the shoulder of the expressway. Tie a white handkerchief to your door-handle to attract a patrolling policeman's attention. He will assist you. To take a small liberty with an old cowboy adage: "Never turn your back on spirited horsepower."

Apply it to your driving if you miss a turnpike exit, and you'll never get kicked in the rear.

Sliced avocado pear and grapefruit sections make a wonderful salad, when served on a bed of crisp romaine and flavored with a tangy French dressing.

TV PROGRAM ON RELIGION SUNDAYS AT 10

NEW YORK (AP) — In the hours of Sunday morning, when the majority of Americans are said to be either in church or in bed, there comes one of the best daytime TV programs visible in the entire week, "Lamp Unto My Feet" (CBS-TV).

Obviously not everyone is asleep or at church, for "Lamp Unto My Feet" (10 a.m. EST) maintains a healthy audience. Furthermore, it recently completed 10 consecutive years on the air, making it one of the oldest programs visible. Finally, it deals with an area of human experience that television usually shuns: religion.

One of the significant things about the nonsectarian program is that it is unsponsored—either commercially or by those who generally are considered "religious."

Reach Unchurched

"People who are religiously oriented usually are in church when we come on the air," says its young producer, Don Kellerman. "We have our greatest influence on the people with whom we most want to communicate — the unchurched."

Although its intent is not evangelical, "Lamp Unto My Feet" is religious in the sense that it is concerned with moral problems. And in its decade the program has revealed the immemorial truth that moral problems are as vast as life itself.

Sometimes it concerns itself and its viewers with the garden variety problems—alcoholism, the role of the aged, the pangs of adolescence. Again it will plunge into the bigger jungle problems of ambition and prejudice and vanity.

Use Many Arts

"Our whole point," says Kellerman, "is to reveal a problem but never try to offer a solution. The 15-minute play that dramatizes a problem would be a shoddy production if it tried to solve it. And the 15-minute discussion following the play would be morally shoddy if it tried to solve it."

It's regrettable that many efforts at religious programming, although morally worthy, have been artistically shoddy. This certainly is not the case with "Lamp Unto My Feet," which has a re-

TAIPEI (AP)—Chinese Nationalist sources predict that Gen. Chu Teh will take over as head of the Red Chinese government from chairman Mao Tze-tung. The Nationalists also say that a face-saving way has been found to ease Mao out as head of the Communist party.

The change reportedly would be made to quiet unrest on the mainland.

The sources made their predictions after reports from Nationalist underground agents that the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party in an urgent session at Hankow had decided to replace Mao, now 65.

Red Cross sources said Corden, 31, who was the ringleader of the 21 Korean War turncoats, was expected to arrive at the Hong Kong border Friday.

The U.S. consulate general and the Hong Kong government said they had no official confirmation of the report.

An 18-member Soviet expedition traveled 1,366 miles.

Assistance fervor to express a moral subject in the highest terms of art.

19 LOSE LIVES IN ACCIDENTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold snowy weekend helped boost accidental deaths in Pennsylvania over the weekend to at least 19.

Eight died on highways. Many roads were icy and hazardous from a light snowfall Sunday.

About one inch fell in many parts of the state, although the Weather Bureau had predicted a much heavier fall. But the storm veered as it came up the Atlantic Coast and the snow turned to intermittent flurries within the state. More flurries were expected to follow, with some accumulation predicted tonight in western Pennsylvania.

Six people died Saturday night while standing on the porch of the old Mountaintop Hotel in Allentown watching a gas main explosion and fire. A second explosion destroyed the hotel, burying the victims under tons of stone and brick.

Two others died in fires. Three died when rifles discharged accidentally, two of them in identical mishaps. Their hunting rifles went off while they were getting out of their cars.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of 10 Republicans who rate themselves as liberals voted unanimously Monday to undertake a fight for control of the Senate leadership of their party.

Their spokesman, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) announced that they decided to present "a full slate of candidates at the Senate Republican conference in January which will be representative of the Republican party as shown by the voters in the last election."

The action posed the prospect of a fight with Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), who apparently is Bridges' choice to succeed Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), as Republican floor leader.

NEW YORK (AP) — Great Atlantic & Pacific Co. common stock — all of which now has voting power for the first time in the company's 99-year history — opened on the New York Stock Exchange Monday at $59 a share.

The opening was delayed more than half an hour as the specialist in the stock matched buying and selling orders.

This is the only outstanding stock of the company. Last Friday at the first stockholders meeting in 99 years the shareholders approved a recapitalization plan, splitting the old common shares and exchanging preferred shares for common.

POWER OF SUGGESTION

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The marquee over a downtown theater reads: "A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed." Sunday the box office was robbed of $100. The robber escaped on foot.

88 IN. SNOW HITS OSWEGO

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP) — This northern New York community measured a full winter's snowfall Monday, a week before the official beginning of that season.

A U.S. Weather Bureau observer said 88 inches of snow had fallen here this month. The snowfall for all of last winter was 88 inches.

Squalls off Lake Ontario added four inches over Saturday night to help produce the new total.

Oswego police reported Sunday night that that city of 23,000 was winning its fight against the incessant battering by snowstorms that paralyzed it much of last week.

Most streets were opened and downtown stores were jammed over the weekend with Christmas shoppers rushing to make up for lost time.

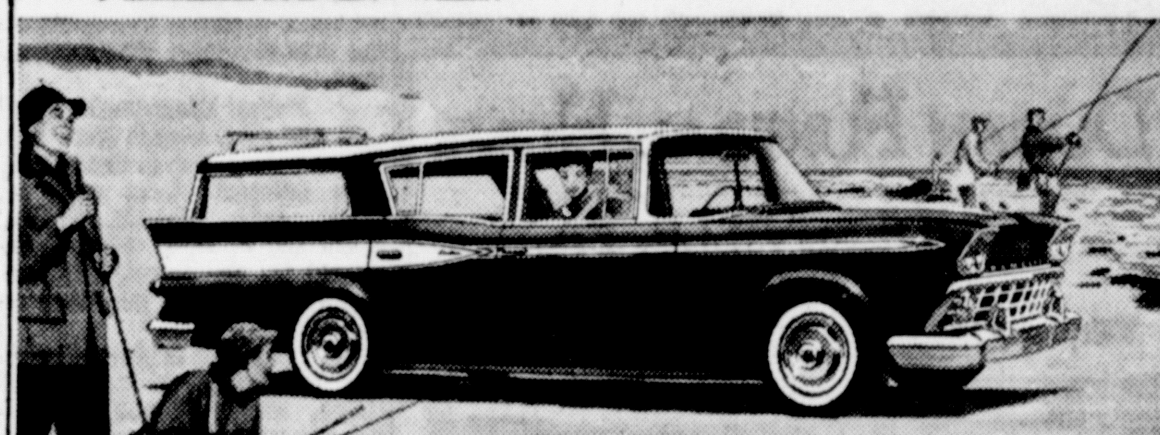

Schools reopen today. Most factories are working at normal capacity.

The Journey To Jesus

Three Men Set Out To Trace Star; Council Is Not Unanimous On Wisdom Of Expedition

EDITOR'S NOTE: The "Three Kings of the Orient" were in fact kings only of knowledge — professional scholars more advanced than any others in their age. But their decision to search for a Divine King was not welcomed by all their learned colleagues. Here's a description of their odyssey, second of five articles on the Magi's Journey to Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer

THE CARAVAN stood in readiness. It had taken nearly three months to prepare for the 1,200-mile journey. Shouts of leather-shirted cavalry officers mingled with the bawling of animals as supplies were loaded.

Somewhere . . . somewhere in Judea . . . was the destination. The chief camoleer rushed about, yelling instructions and gesticulating violently, as sweating slaves hoisted rope crates and grain bags to the backs of kneeling freight beasts. Dust swirled in the bright Persian sunlight.

Make Ready

Blankets, tents, foodstuffs, water casks and other necessities, along with chests of rare treasures, were stowed on the wooden pack saddles, divided equally by weight on either side, and bound to the uprights.

Since it would be a rigorous trip, only about 400 pounds of cargo, two-thirds the usual maximum, was placed on each camel. A crowd of jostling townspeople looked on, women veiled in their chadors; dark, hirsute men with laughing eyes.

"A fool's expedition! Those greybeards chase the wind."

Three Selected

Behind a brick wall, inside the palace of the royal Magian Council, a circle of white-gowned men sat around a fire, staring silently into its leaping flames.

Among them were the three (the number and their identifications are matters of divergent ancient accounts, but the most common listing is used here) who had determined to track the genesis of a star.

They were Melchior, pale, old, white-bearded; Gaspar, a tall,

THE JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM as pictured in John of Hildesheim's story of the Three Kings, published in 1484, shows them wearing crowns and approaching a walled town. Although they were known to the Middle Ages as "kings," the Magi actually were professional scholars, and "kings" only of knowledge.

ruddy young priest, and black-skinned Balthasar, of medium age and stature, whose ancestors may have come to Persia in the days when its empire stretched to Ethiopia.

Not Unanimous

Not all their fellow Magi condoned this quest to honor a hypothetical "Blessed One" of alien birth. Nor would they, as the en-sting years proved, accept its validity. It smacked of national disloyalty.

But the tenacity of High Magus Melchior and his supporters had overcome this narrow view. The strange mission was decreed.

Seeking Divine guidance, the counsellors sat now to "contem-

The military escort was supplied as a routine to such royal entourages, even though the fratricidal King Phraates IV, dominated by an Italian concubine he called "the goddess Musa," had no taste for the mission.

Drop Escort

The squadron of helmeted archers, with their fine-limbed horses, led the column down into the plain of Apolloniat, on past the proudly independent city of Seleucia beside the Tigris, and as far as the Euphrates bridge.

For them to go farther might have appeared warlike. The Magi and their retinue of servants likely continued from there alone. A long, hard road, of many months, lay ahead.

They tramped on. The saddles chafed their legs; the sun burned their skin and dust caked their eyes. The trip took six months to a year, other travel logs of the period indicate.

What kind of men were these who discerned a still small voice, and pursued it across a continent?

The annals of that time tell of their knowledge and insight.

"Divinely Wise"

Philo, then an Alexandrian philosopher, said the Magi "behold the books of nature with more acute perception than usual." A contemporary Roman scholar, Apuleius, calls them "divinely wise."

The Wisdom of Solomon says the Magi "seek for God being conversant with His works." The ancient Greek geographer, Herodotus, said that in all the world's ignorance was one shining exception — the truth-loving Magi.

Many other ancient scholars, Pliny, all speak of the Magian acuity. They were official tutors of princes, Persian and Parthian alike.

Slept In Tents

But none of this explains the impetus that took them hundreds of miles, in broiling heat of day and chill of night, across the wide Syrian desert to Haleh or Tudmor, and on along the dusty highway to Damascus.

They camped at night in their black goat-hair tents, for it would not be fitting for regal personages to stop in foreign hostels, with their dancers, boxers, knife-throwers and comedians balancing underfed infants atop poles.

The brilliant star they had seen "in the east" or more specifically translated "at the rising" apparently did not guide them, for Judea lay to the west beside the Mediterranean — not to the east.

Record Lost

Part of their secret may have been in their "Zendavesta," the hoary, mystical record of which only one of 21 books survive. Or it may have been in the labyrinthine, dateless processes of the past linking their stored-up lore and monotheistic beliefs with Judaism, and its yearning for the king of kings.

Whatever the explanation, the Magi's final decision was precipitated by a star, and as Ignatius described it in the First Century, it "shone in heaven beyond all other stars . . . its light was inexpressible . . . men's ignorance was taken away."

It was in that instant, in a flare of intuition and conviction, that the Magi had known heaven had touched earth. So they traveled and on, south along the great trade route from Damascus, across the eastern shore of Galilee, along the Jericho ford over the Jordan, and to Jerusalem.

They arrived there, not with any map or preordained itinerary or directional signals, but with the burning force with which they started — the force that outruns all transient knowledge — their faith.

QUIZ HUSBAND IN MURDER OF WIFE, KIDDIES

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—A man who has blamed a transient teenager for the slaying of his wife and four children was himself the subject of extensive police questioning Sunday.

The examination of the man, Thomas J. Pendergast, 39, included two lie detector tests ordered by Police Chief Joe O'Connor.

O'Connor declined to discuss the tests, conducted during seven hours of questioning of Pendergast, other than to say: "His story is consistent. But we feel we've made progress by the polygraphic (lie detector) examinations."

Investigators said Pendergast was asked specifically for more details about his connection with Carl Eder, the missing teenager whom Pendergast had said he befriended in the hope of saving him from a life of crime.

Eder, 16, known to the Pendergast family as Charles Harrison, has been formally charged with murdering Lois Pendergast, 37, and her children, David, 9; Thomas, 6; Diane, 4, and Allen, 2. The bodies were found in the family home here Friday night.

The mother had been shot twice and the children's throats slashed and the skulls of two of them were fractured.

FIRE DESTROYS DISCOUNT MART

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A huge discount mart fully stocked with Christmas merchandise was destroyed by fire Sunday. The loss was estimated at about half a million dollars.

The blaze in the suburban Woodlyn store, known as "Bargain City U. S. A.," began shortly before dawn. The cause was not disclosed although a night watchman said it began in some electric wiring.

Edwin Robb, of the Ridley Twp. Fire Prevention Board, said the operators of the recently opened building had been warned that it lacked adequate fire fighting equipment.

TRAIN HITS STALLED BUS

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—A train, grinding toward an emergency stop, struck a stalled school bus at a suburban Bridgeport crossing Monday.

Most of the 60 pupils aboard the bus managed to get out ahead of the crash, but five were hospitalized for injuries, including a boy with a possible skull fracture. Some 15 others suffered cuts and bruises.

About 15 other pupils were treated for minor bruises and cuts by a physician called to their Bridgeport community schools.

The driver, Russell J. Knisley, leaped from his seat and tried to flag down the oncoming Chesapeake & Ohio freight train which set signal lights flashing and dove into sight moments after his bus stalled.

Witnesses said the fleeing children ran away from the crossing and oncoming train as fast as they could.

2 EX-CONVICTS ARE HELD FOR KILLING WOMAN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two ex-convicts, one of whom served time for a fatal stabbing, have been charged with killing a woman and beating her husband Saturday night in the couple's delicatessen.

Herman Rucker, 38, and Carl J. Melton, 28, were described as beasts by Magistrate William Hagan Sunday after hearing police detail the charges against them.

The pair, spattered with blood, were arrested several hours after Mrs. Rose Schloss, 62 was stabbed to death and her husband Sam, 65, beaten severely.

Police said Rucker, who was imprisoned for a fatal stabbing in 1947, killed Mrs. Schloss. They said he told of breaking into the building where the Schlosses operated the delicatessen and made their home.

He was quoted as saying Mrs. Schloss screamed and ran into the store and "I caught up to her in back of the meat counter. I grabbed up a knife off the meat block and stabbed her." Mrs. Schloss' throat was slashed, she was stabbed twice in the back and a boning knife was found in one of the wounds.

Melton, police said, admitted beating Schloss with a tube he had ripped from some door chimes. Schloss was in serious condition at a hospital.

The pair took $100, police said.

YORK, Pa. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. W. Ward Smith, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church for the past 10 years, died at his home Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. Smith, 47, had been under a physician's care for a heart ailment.

He was chairman of the state Pastors' Conference of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches in 1956 and had served as president of the EUB Ministerial Alliance and the Greater Interdenominational Ministerial Assn.

First Railroad Arrived In Gettysburg Late In Evening One Hundred Years Ago Today

Gettysburg's two railroads will observe anniversaries this winter. One hundred years ago, December 16, 1858, the first railroad arrived in Gettysburg. It later became the Western Maryland Railroad Company.

Thirty-five years and two months later, February 26, 1884, the second railroad reached this historic community. It was known as the Gettysburg and Harrisburg Railroad Company. Now it is the Reading Railroad.

The first train attracted considerable attention. The Adams Sentinel and General Advertiser published the following:

"The opening of our Railroad... was a most brilliant affair, far exceeding all expectations and its scenes and interests and delightful social gatherings will very long be remembered by our citizens and by the many hundreds of our visitors from abroad, who honored us with a visit upon the interesting occasion. We learn that they have all gone to their homes, delighted with our town's citizens and the hospitable reception they received."

"A Great Day" The subhead under the headline "The Railroad Opening!" stated "A Great Day!" According to the Sentinel "Thursday (December 16) — set apart to signalize the opening of the Gettysburg Railroad — was a day long to be remembered by the good people of Gettysburg. The interest manifested in the completion of the enterprise by the citizens of Baltimore and Philadelphia, with which cities we are now in direct Railway communication, together with assurances of delegations from York and Hanover, gave promise of a lively time. But the realization far exceeded all anticipations. The exceedingly unfavorable weather of the past week or two had seriously impeded the progress of the tracklayers, and it was only at a late hour on Wednesday night that the track was brought up to Carlisle street amid mud and slush in any imaginable quantity.

Cannons Salute Trains The morning of Thursday, however, dawned with every assurance of a beautiful day, and such it was, barring the mud which during the week or two of successive rain had accumulated in our town to a degree that put in fault the memory of the 'old inhabitant.' We regretted this because of the possibly unfavorable impressions of our usually cleanly and pretty town that might be made upon the minds of strangers.

The Sentinel said that the "Independent Blues" were out early "under arms" commanded by Capt. Buehler to meet similar "Military Companies" of militiamen from York and Hanover and escort other arriving delegations.

As each train arrived its approach was signaled by "The firing of cannon on the eastern limits of the Borough."

400 On Excursion Trainload after trainload arrived, including a Baltimore excursion "near four hundred in number, a fitting representation of the 'Merchant princes' of the Monumental City."

There was a parade with Col. J. H. McClellan as chief marshal and the "Chief Burgess" welcomed the group at the square. "Besides the various excursionists from abroad the citizens of our own county came pouring in from all sections in large numbers, swelling the mass of people far beyond that ever witnessed in our quiet borough. The crowd congregated in and around the Centre Square is variously estimated at from eight to ten thousand."

There were martial music, banners across the streets and on buildings, and "last but not least the snorting and puffing and pushing and pulling of the Locomotive 'elephant' of the occasion."

Citizens Play Hosts When the committee found that arrangements for refreshments were insufficient "our citizens generally promptly threw open their houses, extending a cordial greeting and entertainment to all who saw fit to accept them." A ball at "McConaughy's Hall" and "a Serenade at a late hour of Prof. Holland's incomparable band" concluded the day.

Burgess Robert G. Harper, welcoming the Baltimore contingent said, "Even before the completion of this road, you had much, indeed, the greater part of our products flowing to your city, but now it would seem to me that the entire trade of our whole region of country will naturally flow to you. The completion of the road, therefore, is a matter of mutual interest and mutual satisfaction. "The effect upon you will be, of course, as the small rivulet, furnishing, with gentle, purring stream, a contribution to the mighty river, which bears upon its bosom the commerce of a great city. To us it is of more importance, connecting us more materially with the world, from which we have been somewhat isolated, and placing us on terms of equality with many towns who have from fortuitous circumstances, eclipsed us."

Helped Defend Baltimore Wm. McPhail Esq., president of the Second Branch of the City Council of Baltimore, made the response. He recalled Gettysburgians had come to the defense of Baltimore when it was attacked in the war of 1812, described the growth of Baltimore, praised Gettysburg and concluded by "tendering my compliments to the ladies of your borough, who have been pleased to give their presence to these festivities."

At a program held at the college Moses McLean, president of the board of trustees, greeted the procession that had marched to the college. William H. Travers, Esq., responded for the citizens of Baltimore, "alluding to the great work of improvement which now united Gettysburg with the waters of the Patapsco." He said he had met the "alumni of the college in various stations of life and had found them men of high intelligence. My wish is that the institution may prosper and send forth many more jewels to adorn the nation."

Met At Hanover The Baltimore delegation had been met at Hanover by a delegation of the officers of the "Gettysburg Railroad."

David Wells, Esq., spoke for the board. Judge Lee of Baltimore responded to the address remarking that when he looked around upon the prosperity which was evidenced in every direction, he was forcibly "reminded of the fact that when God created our first parents, he did not place them in a city, but in a garden surrounded by the beauties and means of enjoyment which to this day invite the weary and care-worn city man to fly from his labors and his duties and seek vigor and happiness in the rural districts."

Second Train Arrives Twenty-five years and two months after the first railroad arrived in Gettysburg, the town welcomed its second, "the Gettysburg and Harrisburg Rail Road," now the Reading.

February 26, 1884, the Star and Sentinel noted: "Arrival of First Train! About 11 o'clock this morning the firing of cannon at the new depot announced the approach of the first train over the new Railroad. It bore Jay Cooke, Col. Fuller, the officers of the road and a number of invited guests."

PUBLIC DISPERSAL SALE Saturday, December 20, 1958—12:30 P.M. Located in Cumberland Township, Adams County, along west side of Rte. 34, known as the Old Carlisle Road, 3 miles north of Gettysburg.

Crowd Is Present

"The train then came into town, amid the booming of cannon and the cheers of a large crowd of people who had gathered at the depot, notwithstanding the rain which had set in. The large locomotive 'Jay Cooke' was whistled with flags and its whistle noisily saluted the town."

"The visitors took dinner at the Eagle Hotel and will return home this afternoon."

"The formal opening of the road for general business will be arranged hereafter with appropriate ceremonies, of which due notice will be given."

REFUSES TO PROSECUTE ON BLUE LAWS

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. William C. Storb says he won't try to arrest or prosecute a number of persons conducting businesses in this area on Sunday.

Storb was petitioned by a group of downtown Lancaster merchants to take action against five stores on the basis of the old Pennsylvania Blue Law against Sunday sales.

Storb replied over the weekend it would be "patently unfair" to do so without acting against all violators. He said the law prohibits the sale not only of non-essential merchandise, but also bans "all worldly employment."

He said that to interpret the law strictly would mean that he would have to include the sale of newspapers, gasoline and groceries and the operation of public places of recreation.

The five stores that were the object of the petition sell toys, hardware and other items.

In Lehigh County, Dist. Atty. Paul A. McGinley has been conducting an intensive campaign against Sunday businesses.
